Curriculum

Reading: We will continue to explore nonfiction texts - learning about text features and determining the main idea and details. The week before Thanksgiving Break, we will dive back into fiction texts - specifically Fables, Folktales and Fairy Tales. We will work on making connections, retelling the stories and recognizing sensory details.

Writing: We will be working on writing fiction and nonfiction pieces. We will continue to work on sounding out words to write phonetically. We will also work on editing and revising.

Math: We will continue working on the concept of subtraction and the doubles addition strategy. We will also be learning about 2D shapes, 3D shapes, and fractions.

Science: We will wrap up our unit on force and motion and then move on to learning about rocks, soil and water.

Social Studies: We will be learning about how customs and traditions are determined and why they are important to families and communities.
