Curriculum

Reading: We will be learning why we read and how to become better independent readers. We will also begin exploring fiction texts. This includes sequencing the story, understanding the problem, solution and reasons for the characters actions and feelings.

Writing: We will be writing small moment stories and learning how to sound out words to write phonetically.

Math: We will be learning different ways to represent numbers 1-20. We will also begin learning about the "Counting On" strategy and other properties of addition.

Science: We will be learning about properties of objects and how heat changes objects.

Social Studies: We will be learning how to be good citizens. We will also be learning about different customs and traditions.
